Serving to eradicate homelessness by empowering women and their children

Overview: Solomon's Temple is a non-profit organization dedicated to community development efforts that lead to the stability and sustainability of the local community. The community the organization serves is a community in crisis, but also a community with hope and resilience. With almost 40% of the residents living below the Federal Poverty Line, the neighborhoods face high crime rates, high unemployment, poverty, and homelessness. The mission of Solomon's Temple is to serve their clients to help them realize their potential and become vital factors in the revitalization and sustainability of their community.

Day-to-day: Participants will serve by assisting in the food bank and the early childhood/youth programming. Service will largely include spending time with the children and serving as mentors in their after school and community programs.

The Nitty-Gritty Details: Participants will stay on-site in bunk rooms for men and women, and will need to provide their own bedding. Most meals are provided by the site, and the group will get a small budget for groceries to prepare their other meals. Participants should plan to bring additional funds for some meals.
