Engage, leading, and comforting Incarcerated Youth through the Holiday time while critically examining the justice system

Overview: The South Carolina Juvenile Justice Department aims to protect the public and reclaim juveniles through prevention, community programs, education, and rehabilitative services in the least restrictive environment possible. The Department strongly believes change is possible through the empowerment of youth.

Day-to-day: Participants will be interacting with youth in recreational activities. They will be expected to lead and participate in group activities. The holiday times are difficult being away from home and the students should try to keep their minds off that and focused on involving them in an engaging environment. The trip will include visiting multiple facilities around the area to learn more about the justice system.

The Nitty-Gritty Details: Participants will need to undergo a background check through the service site to participate on this trip. Housing will be at the University of South Carolina. Linens will be provided. Meals are not included by the sites, but the group will be given a small budget for groceries to use for meals throughout the week. Participants should plan to have additional funds for some meals.
